Name _____

Dark Matter

Student Datasheet ...

- What is the mysterious “something” that makes up 90% of the Universe?

- How do we know it’s there?

- If 90 percent of the Universe is made of something invisible, do you think scientists will ever really understand the Universe? (There’s no right or wrong answer to this question. Just your own opinion.)

Something else to think about…

Even scientists will agree there are things we will probably never know. But many scientists today are confident that the mystery of “dark matter” will be solved before too long. And, scientifically speaking, they would say there’s a chance it will be solved by someone who is sitting in this room right now. Maybe you!